AN UNEXPECTED BURST OF SPEED

Exhibited by the Conferees on the Tariff Bill

SCHEDULES AND FREE LIST

First Consideration of Them Has Been Completed—Actual Struggle Over the Important Differences Between the House and Senate Will Now Be Opened in Earnest—Lobbyists Throng Corridor of Conference Room.

Washington, July 14.—An unexpected burst of speed was exhibited by the tariff conferees and the first consideration of the bill was completed. This includes all of the schedules and the free list.

As a result when the next session begins the actual struggle over the important differences between the house and the senate will be opened in earnest. Thus far all of these questions involving raw materials, such as iron ore and other metals, wool, cotton, hides, and numerous other articles, which have been the subjects of heated disputes, have been put over after a very brief discussion held for the purpose of determining the temper of the representatives of the two branches of congress.

The bill again will be taken up in the numerical order of the amendments, which means that the chemical schedule will be the first to be acted upon. This schedule comprises the various kinds of paints, of which lead is the basis, and these give promises of a stubborn fight.

By passing over the cotton and woolen schedules without taking up any of the amended paragraphs, and skipping the disputed points connected with the rates on lumber in the wood schedule, the tariff conferees were able to dispose of about 400 amendments. This number, however, includes subjects that were settled tentatively on Monday and Saturday.

Many important subjects, such as the house drawback feature of the alcohol paragraph, the rates on oilcloth, and the various items under the head of lithographs, were submitted to subconferences. The treasury experts who helped the senate finance committee in its consideration of the bill are assisting the conferees in gathering information about these subjects.

The conferees are making every effort to prevent the advance publication of decisions reached by the conferees, regardless of how unimportant are the questions determined.

The corridors about the conference room in the senate office building are about as thickly peopled with representatives of special interests, and lobbyists generally, as they were when the bill was in the house and senate committees.

PRESENTED BY WICKERSHAM

Corporation Tax Amendment Discussed at Cabinet Meeting.

Washington, July 14.—For the second time in its young life, the administration-nurtured corporation tax amendment was subjected to close scrutiny at a cabinet session. It was introduced by Attorney General Wickersham and the members of the president's cabinet recognized it in spite of the disfigurement it had received during its brief visit to the senate. The attorney general had provided for the abused prodigal new raiment similar to that which it wore on its first journey beyond the White House. The 2 per cent tax on net earnings had been reduced to 1 per cent, and other changes were made which convinced the president that it would be safe to let the youngster venture once more to Capitol Hill and test its welcome.

Although fully equipped for the journey the distinguished sponsors of the amendment have decided to keep it under their sheltering care until the tariff conferees have proceeded far enough to give the corporation tax features the glad hand, and especially until the defenders of the measure have been consulted. Therefore it will remain with Attorney General Wickersham until the conferees are about ready to report.

Bomb Found in Stovepipe.
Duluth, July 14.—An attempt to wreck the home of Mrs. Marvin of Biwabik by dynamite was discovered. The kitchen stovepipe did not draw and an investigation disclosed the bomb. Mrs. Marvin is separated from her husband, who resides at McKinley. She does not know who could have designs on her life.

CASE DRAWING TO A CLOSE

Evidence Impeaching Testimony of Ella Gingles Submitted.

Chicago, July 14.—Wrangling lawyers and further testimony impeaching Ella Gingles' testimony of her torture in the Wellington hotel, Feb. 17, marked the closing hours of the state's case against the young Irish lacemaker. Assistant State's Attorney B. J. Short announced that he would conclude with a few more witnesses. The case probably will reach the jury by Friday morning.

An alibi was furnished for Miss Agnes May Barrette, proprietor of a lace store in the Wellington hotel, who is accused by Miss Gingles of being the moving spirit in the plot to lead her into "white slavery," and of abusing and cutting her in the bathroom.

Detective Sergeant Charles McNulty gave testimony showing the peculiar actions of Mr. O'Donnell, when he was informed in a mysterious note that his client was in danger at the hotel.

"O'Donnell met me in Captain Bryan's office," said McNulty. "We got a taxicab and O'Donnell directed the driver to go to 474 La Salle avenue. I asked him why he was going to the house first. He said he wanted to make sure that Ella was not at home. He showed us the note saying she was being killed at the hotel. Then we went to O'Donnell's office and then to the hotel."

"O'Donnell told me to go in and see if Miss Gingles was there. I asked the clerk and he said no one by that name was there. We drove back to the station. Captain O'Brien met us and told us to go back to the hotel as Ella was in the bathroom."

"On the way back to the hotel, O'Donnell said that there was a man at French Lick who was employing Miss Barrette and Mrs. Kenyon as procuresses. He said the man was Tom Taggart, I believe."

"When we got to the hotel we found Ella on the bed. She was excited and scratched a bit. O'Donnell leaned over her and put his arms around her and called her 'dearie.'"

The witness then testified that he examined the bathroom and found the transom covered with dust, showing that no one could have crawled over it, as alleged by Miss Gingles.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA ILL

May Have to Undergo Another Operation.

St. Paul, July 14.—An operation may be necessary in the near future to prevent the recurrence of attacks of indigestion to which Governor Johnson has been subject for several years. The governor is laid up with one of these attacks and he said that he believed that sooner or later he would have to have another operation. Governor Johnson was at Green Lake, Minn., Friday and Saturday of last week lecturing at the Chautauqua and the irregular hours and unusual diet necessitated by the travel and dining at strange places upset his stomach. He was at his office Monday although he was slightly indisposed, but Tuesday morning at 3 o'clock the pain became so severe that a physician had to be called. He is feeling better, although he still feels some pain.

Governor Johnson has been operated upon by the Mayos at Rochester twice. The first operation for appendicitis did not relieve his bowel trouble and he had another attack shortly afterward. There still seems to be some trouble near the appendix and the governor believes that another operation will be necessary before he will be free from the trouble.

The governor was slated for a lecture at Kalamazoo, Mich., Friday of this week, but he wired cancelling the date. He expects to go to Seattle with his staff on July 28, to be at the exposition on Minnesota day, Aug. 3.

The governor will probably call an extra session of the legislature next fall for the purpose of ratifying the income tax amendment which congress has submitted.

Peace Again Established.
Washington, July 14.—Official confirmation of the report that peace had been re-established at Barranquilla, Colombia, reached the state department from Paxton Hibben, the American charge d'affaires at Bogota. The blockade established there has been raised and Magdalena river traffic has been resumed.

FAVORABLE TO HER HUSBAND

Testimony Given by Evelyn Nesbit Thaw.

NOT COMPELLED TO ANSWER

Court Holds That Witness Need Not Reply to Questions Asked by the Deputy Attorney General, Who Sought to Have Her Admit That Harry Thaw Had Threatened Her Life When She Visited Him.

White Plains, N. Y., July 14.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, as pretty as ever, petulant and school-girlish, and dressed in the familiar blue which she affected so much during the trial of her husband, Harry K. Thaw, for the murder of Stanford White, was on the stand for more than an hour before Justice Mills in the supreme court here, subpoenaed by the state in its fight to keep Thaw in the asylum for the criminal insane at Matteawan.

But for the absence of the dainty Eaton collar, which she wore so much during both of the murder trials, Mrs. Thaw appeared much the same as she did when Jerome was trying to send Harry Thaw to the electric chair. She is a little more mature, perhaps, but she showed the same girlishness that won sympathy for her while testifying heretofore, and at times was petulant to the extent of tears.

And though called by the state in an endeavor to prove Harry Thaw irrational, what Roger Clarke, the deputy attorney general, drew from her lips created rather a favorable impression for her husband. She was excused from the stand, but was subpoenaed by the state and will appear again.

Refused to Answer Questions.

Upon the ultimate outcome of Evelyn Thaw's testimony, the state's fight largely rests. Mr. Clarke tried hard to get her to admit that Thaw had threatened her life when she visited him on one occasion after his commitment to Matteawan. But turning appealingly to the court, she repeatedly refused to answer his questions, and after a clash between counsel, Justice Mills ruled that he would hold the conversation in which the threat was supposed to have been made a confidential one between the husband and wife, and therefore privileged until the state presented proof to show that Daniel O'Reilly, the New York lawyer, who was present at the time, was not then acting as counsel for both Mr. and Mrs. Thaw. This Deputy Attorney General Clarke promised to do, and Mrs. Thaw was excused after identifying a number of papers in her husband's handwriting.

Aside from Evelyn Thaw's appearance, which was the sensation of the day, the testimony was much like that of the previous accounts by witnesses, called by Thaw's counsel, all of whom attested to his apparent soundness of mind. The eagerness to see Mrs. Thaw was just as intense as when she appeared daily at the criminal courts building. A throng of curious spectators crowded into every available foot of space of the new courtroom, the rumor having gone out earlier in the day that she would testify. When she left the stand such a crowd followed her that she had to take refuge in the district attorney's office.

SERIOUS RIOTS IN BELFAST

Result of Conflicts Between Nationalists and Orangemen.

Belfast, Ireland, July 14.—The nationalist quarter of the city has been the scene of serious riots, owing to the disturbed state of the district since the conflicts between the Nationalists and Orangemen on July 12. A large force of police has been drafted and guards are stationed in various sections of the quarter. Already several encounters have taken place between the police and the mob, the latter attacking the guards with stones and bottles. The police made a number of charges with their clubs and a large number of rioters and officers were injured.

Woman Dies of Injuries.

Minneapolis, July 14.—Mrs. W. C. Haney, twenty-three years old, was fatally burned late Monday night, when a lighted gasoline stove exploded in her home. The woman was rushed to St. Mary's hospital, where she died several hours later. In an attempt to save his wife, Mr. Haney was severely burned and was removed to the hospital. His injuries will not prove fatal.

Of Course they're going

They are bound to. It is just as one woman said today, "Those prices are almost too good to be true." Yet it is true. No profit for us, we assure you—a loss most certainly but you know our plan to close all out each year even tho we lose. See the suits in the window and remember that $37.50, $35.00, $30.00 and $25.00 suits sell at $12.50.

$21.00, $20.00, $19.00 and $17.50 suits sell at $9.98.

"MICHAEL'S"

GIRL COMMITTED SUICIDE

Believed Her Escort Drowned in Trying to Save Her.

Sturgis, Mich., July 14.—That Mary Loretta Davey, the Chicago girl whose body was found floating in Klinger lake seven miles west of here, ended her life by leaping into the water during a fit of despondency due to ill health, is the theory generally accepted by the authorities of St. Joseph county and by the campers about the lake where the tragedy occurred. Searchers failed to recover the body of Claud Hunt, the young farmer who is believed to have been drowned in an effort to save the girl, and this fact led some among the campers to "feline to the belief that Hunt may have been able to reach shore. This, however, is seemingly refuted by the fact, as stated by Hunt's brother, that the young man could not swim. Hunt's hat and coat were found floating near the shore of the lake and some distance from where the tragedy is believed to have occurred.

The body of the dead girl was taken to Chicago, her father having arrived at the lake. No inquest was held, the authorities believing that there was no question but that death was caused by drowning. Miss Davey never met Hunt until she went with him on the fatal ride.

Langford Defeats Haynes.

Pittsburg, July 14.—Sam Langford of Boston and John Haynes, better known as Klondike, of Chicago fought six rounds to a draw at the Bijou theater here. Klondike took the count of nine six times during the bout. The popular opinion gave the fight to Langford, although the law allows no decision.

SAMMIS ELECTED EXALTED RULER

Iowa Man Honored by Grand Lodge of Elks.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14.—The grand lodge of Elks elected the following officers:

Exalted ruler, James U. Sammis, LeMars, Ia.; leading knight, Warren G. Sayres, Wabash, Ind.; lecturing knight, J. D. Jones, Scranton, Pa.; secretary, Fred C. Robinson, Dubuque, Ia.; treasurer, Edwin R. Leach, New York; trustee, Perry A. Clay, Denver; tyler, Charles L. Dicker, Bemidji, Minn.; inner guard, A. M. Taylor, St. Augustine, Fla.

The balloting for grand exalted loyal knight resulted in no election, four candidates being voted for and no one receiving a majority. J. L. Preston of Wyoming received 325 votes.

Another ballot will be taken. The vote for grand exalted ruler was extremely close, Sammis receiving 592 votes and Herman 529.

The fight of the session of the grand lodge was over the election of a grand exalted ruler.

During the last hours the struggle for votes, led by the Iowa delegation for Sammis and the Ohio delegation for Hermann, grew into a bitter one and into this final fight many prominent Elks, including Rush L. Holland, the present grand exalted ruler, were drawn.

In a statement regarding the publication of a letter he had written to Sammis, Mr. Holland complained that unfairness had been shown in not giving out the entire contents of the letter, but only such portions as made it appear that he had endorsed the candidacy of Sammis.

The only other contest was over the office of grand exalted lecturing knight. Harry Walter of Philadelphia and J. D. Jones of Scranton, Pa., were nominated.

Detroit was selected as the place for holding the reunion in 1910.

In the annual report of Grand Exalted Ruler Holland, the matter of establishing an orphanage for the children of deceased Elks is submitted to the grand lodge without recommendation.

Hazardous.

Life Insurance Agent (filling out application)—Your general health is good, is it not?

Applicant—Never had a sick day in my life.

Agent—Um! You do not contemplate entering upon any hazardous undertaking, I suppose?

Applicant—Well, yes; I am afraid I do. I am going to get married next Wednesday.—London Answers.

Women Bandits at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, June 14.—Two women bandits, armed with revolvers, held up two men under the Washington avenue viaduct, securing $86. The holdups made a quick escape, but two women answering their description were arrested a half hour later by the police and were identified by the men. They gave the names of Mary Walker and Rose Brown.

The case against Carl Bergren,
Arthur Gattie and Henry Rifenrath, charged with assault on Chas. Hendrickson was on trial in the municipal court most of the day today. According to the story told by the witnesses for the state, of whom John Tift and his brother-in-law and Mrs. Tift were prominent, swore that the defendants followed Hendrickson and attacked him. Tift seemed to think that if the court would give him an even chance with the attorney he could best him, and insisted in interjecting remarks, rather than answering the attorney's questions. Hendrickson, the victim of the assault, was unable to identify any of the men who attacked him. Bergren changed his plea to guilty of assault, and the case as to the others is being argued this afternoon.

"What if I were one of those hus-

His Birthmark.
An Irishman who had just traveled from Dublin to Glasgow to seek emeh?"

"Exactly."
"Shure, that's only a birthmark which I have. You see, sir, I was coming from Dublin on the boat, and by a mistake I went into the wrong berth,
and the fellow who was there gave me

You tax the kidneys—overwork

They can't keep up the continual strain.

The back gives out—it aches and pains;
Urinary troubles set in.
Don't wait longer—take Doan's Kid-

Brainerd people tell you how they act.
Edward Dechaine, living at 601 Fifth St., Brainerd, Minn., says: "Heavy work brought on a disordered condition of my kidneys and caused my back to ache intensely. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at H. P. Dunn's drug store and their use soon eliminated the backaches, pains through my loins, and regulated the action of the kidneys. I gladly recommend such a valuable remedy to the people

Notice--Teachers Institute

For the benefit of those wishing to teach who did not find it convenient to attend the normal summer schools I have arranged with the state department of Public Instruction for a week's institute to be held in Brainerd beginning July 26.

The object of the institute will be to furnish an opportunity for a thorough review and drill in the common branches, including civics, thus preparing for the teachers' examination which will be held the week following the close of the institute.

The educational work will be conducted by S. C. Rice, of Minneapolis, assisted by one or more competent instructors.

The institute will be in some room of the Washington school building and will be free to all who may wish to attend but only those that mean business will be admitted.

Do not figure on teaching on a third grade certificate or permit because the children of the county have a right to demand teachers holding at least state second grade certificates. This institute will do much towards helping you to get into this more desirable class of teachers. The push and energy must be furnished by yourself.

Bring your school books with you—you may need them. Get busy and be ready for work at 9 o'clock a. m., July 26, 1909.

J. A. WILSON,
County Superintendent.

coming and goes bounding away for safety. The dog strikes the scent, smells around briefly and then is off in the direction the rabbit has taken. The wonder is not that the dog should strike the scent, but this: Each of the several spots the rabbit touched was touched by him within a fraction of a second of one another, yet so accurate is the sense of smell of the dog that he can tell which was touched last and so get the direction of the rabbit's course.—Exchange.

Misunderstood.
The words of some hymns are sometimes misunderstood, and the misunderstanding is often ridiculous. A young countryman had promised to contribute $2 to a fund to buy music books as soon as he disposed of a calf, but failed to do so. He went to choir practice one night a little late, and just as he entered the door the choir
began to sing the well known Sunday school song "The Half Was Never Told." This sounded to him like "the calf was never sold," and he started in to thrash several of the young men in the choir.

will be best promoted—best preserved—if you are ready to give the proper remedy at the proper time. The proper remedy for all strains, sprains or colic is Perry Davis' Painkiller. The proper time to use it is when the trouble first shows itself. Be prompt and you'll not only save the horse suffering, but you'll spare yourself trouble and expense—maybe save a long time waiting. You ought to have a bottle ready. The new size bot-

your druggist gives you Perry Davis'

Choosing a Builder.
The selection of a builder is quite as important a matter in putting up a house as the choice of an architect.
Don't choose the cheapest builder merely because he is cheapest. If you accept his bid, find out the reason of the cheapness. Frequently the builder is a man of little means, and often he operates on borrowed capital. Should the builder become bankrupt or fail to pay for his labor or materials the owner, under the mechanics' laws of most states, becomes liable for the builder's debts. This is true even though the owner has paid the builder for his work. In order to obtain his house free and clear in such a case the owner must meet the builder's obligations.
The prudent owner will, of course, pay for his house only as it is constructed.
Even then it would be a useful caution
to make sure that the builder has paid his indebtedness on the house. Payments are usually made the builder when the foundations are done, when the frame is up, when the house is closed, when the plastering is finished and when the completed house is turned over to the owner.—Circle Magazine.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity.
Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for testimo-

OUTING

W. H. Andrews left Friday for Duluth. He was accompanied by his wife and Mrs. C. E. Andrews drove to Aitkin Thursday.

The sawmill is busy and is furnishing finished lumber to nearby towns.

Rev. Smith, of Brainerd, took dinner at the City hotel Friday on his way to Mae.

Outing was honored July 2 with a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Tanzer of hotel Pequot.

We are anxiously watching the progress of the telephone line between Outing and Pine River.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wood are at home at Kamp Kareless and entertaining their usual number of guests.

A. Andrews is building a small addition to the east side of Robt. Andrews building, where he expects to soon be located.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Heberling, of Easton, Ill., are spending a part of their vacation at the City hotel, finding their sport on the lakes.

Misses Iva and Elsie Taylor who have been visiting their father, C. M. Taylor, the past few weeks, returned Wednesday to their home in Dakota.

Mrs. Clark Jenkins, of Beulah township, is suffering intensely with blood poison in her finger. Dr. Bickford, of Pine River, has been summoned twice.

W. H. Andrews has built an addition to his warehouse and is running a fine hotel. He also purchased a gasoline launch which takes people around the lake a sailing.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Andrews and Messrs. Wm. Andrews, Bartlett and Wilkerson attended the wedding dance and reception at Emily hall June 30, in honor of Frank Andrews and Ethel Atwater who were married in Brainerd
June 29, 1909.

Outing has not been heard from for a little time but has by no means been asleep. Bob Andrews has erected a building across the street from the City store and is doing a confectionery business. C. M. Taylor has built a large dancing pavilion in lot 8, facing the lake. Mrs. Prybils' cottage is nearly completed and Mr. Clabaugh and family are occupying it.

The 4th of July was celebrated the 3rd and spent very pleasantly and vigorously with much firing of guns, firecrackers and popguns. A large delegation came down from Bullah and the day was spent in picnic, dinners, races and launch rides and, the evening, in dancing in the pavilion and, brightened with constant flashes of fireworks.

Will the People Vote Bonds?

The water works appraisers have agreed upon the valuation of the water works plant, but will this price prove satisfactory to both parties to the suit? I doubt it very much. But I do not believe it will really make a great deal of difference either one way or the other, after all, for of course when the price is finally determined upon, bonds must be issued to get money to pay for the plant, or if the present plant is not taken over by the city, to build a new one, and from the sentiments freely expressed by the people it looks at present as if they would vote down any bond issued for any amount to raise money to be handled by the present council. A council that seriously considers a proposition to suppress the publication of the official minutes of its meetings at such a crisis as is confronting our city at present does not inspire confidence among the people.

As a correspondent of your paper has well said, the council should "work in the open" if they expect the people to vote to give them authority to issue bonds for any purpose whatever.

DAME RUMOR.

Tennyson and Sightseers.
Tennyson's well known aversion to sightseers and their ways gave rise to many an odd experience. Once, it is said, he complained to Queen Victoria, saying that he could no longer stay in the Isle of Wight owing to the tourists who came to stare at him.

The queen, with a kindly irony, said that she herself did not suffer much from that grievance. But Tennyson, taking her literally, replied in the same strain.

"No, madam," said he, "and if I could clap a sentinel wherever I liked I should not be troubled either."

MAKING FIREWORKS.

Some Pyrotechnic Products Must Dry in the Open Air.

TRYING FOR NEW DESIGNS.

Staffs of Artists Continually Devising Color Schemes to Be Worked Out in Fire—The Construction of the Set Pieces—Work of the Chemists.

The first step in manufacturing fireworks is the making of the cases, or shells, as the cylinders or other receptacles in which the explosives and the chemicals are placed are called. Practically all of these are made of innumerable sheets of tissue paper pasted and rolled together until the thickness required is attained. Most of these cases are made by machinery and are delivered as wanted to the places where they are to be filled or charged with the materials that have been prepared. All the charging is done by machinery except in the big shells that throw forth sets of stars of varying colors. In these each "star" has to be placed in a certain position so as to explode in just the right way at the proper instant.

Out of doors in pleasant weather the long lines of fuse—"quick match" they are called—are made. These are wound on reels six or seven feet across. Their basis is loose cotton cord covered with various highly inflammable chemicals. "Quick match," roman candles and a number of other pyrotechnic products cannot be dried by artificial heat. They must lie in the open air until the moisture used in mixing the chemicals evaporates.

All the year around the artists on the staff of the pyrotechnic manufacturers are taxing their brains designing color schemes to be worked out in fire. Outside of the big set pieces, which are much in vogue, a great deal of attention is given to rockets, bombs and rocket bombs, of which there are innumerable kinds. When the artist has evolved some striking color effect he turns over his painting to the chemists, whose task it is to combine various combustible ingredients so as to reproduce what the painter has put on his canvas. The race between the art department and the staff chemists is unending. It is the boast of the chemists that they can duplicate in their burning colors any combination of paints that can be presented to them.

These colors are imparted by the heated vapors of certain metals. Sodium, for instance, gives a yellow light, calcium red, strontium crimson and barium green. The number of chemicals, common and rare, employed in the manufacture of fireworks is prodigious. Take blue stars, for instance. These are commonly produced by a combination of chlorate of potash, calomel, sulphuret of copper, oxychloride of copper, dextrin, stearin, black oxide of copper, copper filings and sal ammoniac.

Every fireworks manufacturer has his carefully guarded trade secrets. Pyrotechnics in its various branches and as a whole is taught in no university, and there is little printed literature on the subject.

The construction of the set pieces, especially if they are large, is a huge task. First the artist draws the picture. It is complete in every detail of outline and shade of color. This is marked off into equal squares, each of which represents a square foot in the actual reproduction in fire. Sections of light boards, say, 20 by 25 feet are built and laid flat on the ground, and rectangles a foot square are marked thereon. On the section is outlined the picture that the artist has made, with the different colors indicated in their proper groupings. Loose over this is built a checkerboard framework of light lath. Then come men with strips of rattan. They tack these to the framework, following exactly every line that has been indicated on the boards below, leaving practically a huge line drawing in rattan.

Then come men with thousands of big pins—ordinary pins, but about an inch long. These are set in the rattan an inch apart. These are followed by other men, who cut the heads off the pins. After this comes a gang of men with bundles of little fireworks, two inches long by one-quarter to three-quarter inches in diameter, in varying colors or combinations of color to correspond with the original drawing. These are called "gerbes." When ignited they emit sheaves of fire. These are stuck on the pins and glued, each shade of color in its proper place along the framework.

After this has been done another gang comes with hundreds of feet of "quick match" and connects all these thousands of "gerbes" together. Loose ends are left here and there for firing when the piece is in place ready to be set off. Then these sections are hoisted into their proper positions, and after infinite labor everything is ready for the wonderful delight to the eye, which may last between one and four minutes. So swiftly does the fire run from "gerbe" to "gerbe" through this "quick match" that the biggest "picture" that is usually shown will be aflame in every part in three seconds.

There is said to be little or no danger about firing these set pieces or even in setting off the bombs that explode with such fearsome noise. The ends of the "quick match," where the "port fire" is applied by the men who do the igniting, are carefully timed so that they have plenty of chance to get out of the way.—New York Press.

DRUG DREAMS.

Queer Visions Conjured Up in the Brains of Daring Experimenters.

An experimenter with the Mexican drug mescal is rewarded by many and varied visions. Before him flit myriads of dainty butterfly forms, glistening, iridescent, fibrous wings of insects, revolving vessels on whose highly polished concave surface of mother-of-pearl many strange and vivid hues play. There are elaborate sweetmeats in endless and appetizing variety and living arabesques of gorgeous hues and superhuman design.

He may take up a pen for the purpose of making notes, but will find himself unable to use it. A pencil, however, proves easy of manipulation. As he writes his paper is covered with a soft golden light, and his hands, seen indirectly, appear bronzed, scaled, fantastically pigmented and flushed with red.

Tiring of the visions, he may light the gas, which immediately fills the room with a glorious radiance, while wonderfully colored shadows of red, green and violet flit here and there. Generally, it is said, no feeling of depression or physical discomfort follows the dream.

A medical experimenter in Kentucky soon after taking a large dose of hashish began to feel very excited; a feeling of inner joyousness possessed him; all fatigue seemed banished forever, and his mind ran riot, one bizarre idea after another rapidly passing through his mind. Later his brain appeared to split in two parts, one of which urged him to the performance of comic gestures, while the other as insistently hinted at impending death and suggested restraint and instant medical advice.

While waiting for a doctor he experienced alternate spells of lucidity and periods when all connections between himself and the outside world seemed to be severed, when a chaos of disjointed ideas and wild reveries obsessed him. The duration of these latter periods was never longer than two minutes, but each seemed an eternity. It appeared a hopeless task to follow the minute hand of his watch during its infinite round; long before the sixty seconds had elapsed he gave up the stupendous task in deep despair. The departure of the doctor synchronized with the return of the feeling of impending death, now most horribly intense.

He imagined himself surrounded by grotesque, menacing, cruel visaged monsters. He felt himself expanding, dilating, dissolving into space, as he ascended steep precipices, covered with Brobdignagian creatures somewhat like lizards, overhanging enormous abysses, the while he was overwhelmed by a horrible, rending, unutterable despair.—Detroit News-Tribune.

MAKING GOLD LEAF.

The Metal Is Beaten For Hours by Men, Then Finished by Girls.

In one of the downtown business streets may be seen sticking from one of the upper windows a massive arm and hand, the hand grasping a huge hammer and the whole sign gilded. It is the sign of the gold beaters' establishment, where thousands of the gold sheets are turned out after having been packed by girls.

Gold leaf is packed more by the aid of the breath than by the hands. The operation of transferring a sheet of almost transparent gold leaf from one place to another is so delicate that it is possible to do it only by a light puff of the breath. It takes most girls six weeks to acquire this knack, and some girls are never able to acquire it.

The gold reaches the beaters first in wide bars or nuggets and has to be weighed, melted and made into inch wide ribbons before anything else is done. The ribbon is then cut into inch squares and beaten with a hammer wielded by a man. When each leaf has been beaten thin it is transferred to a mold, where it is beaten four hours more. The beating is done with a wooden hammer weighing from seven to eighteen pounds, on a sheepskin cushion, which rests on a granite block. The gold used for beating is usually 22 or 23 carats fine. A little alloy of copper or silver is added to make it spread. It would be impossible, the beaters say, to handle perfectly pure gold.

After the gold has been beaten it is handed over to the girls, who lift the unshaped leaf from the mold with a pair of wooden pinchers, flatten it out on a sheepskin cushion by gently blowing on it, cut it to a perfect square, replace it between the leaves of the book and flatten it out with the breath.

There are twenty-five leaves in a book, and a skilled girl can pack seventy books in a day, for which she gets from 2½ to 3 cents a book.—New York Times.

PASSING OF CUSHMAN

Quaint Sayings of the Representative From Washington.

WITTIEST OF CONGRESSMEN.

Never at Loss For a Reply—His First Speech on River and Harbor Bill Filled the House With Roars—Rose From Water Boy to High Place.

Francis W. Cushman, representative in congress from Tacoma, Wash., who recently died in New York, attained two distinctions while in congress. One he claimed as his right by nature, that he was the homeliest man there, and the second he was accorded unanimously, that he was the wittiest.

There had long been the claim that Frank Marion Eddy of Minnesota was the homeliest man in the hall. Walking down the aisle one day, Cushman claimed the speaker's attention and after a spread eagle speech that might have prefaced any subject he turned toward Eddy and said: "Look us over—compare this face with that (pointing to Eddy) and tell me am I not the homeliest?"

Having succeeded to the seat made vacant by James Hamilton Lewis, the members were anxious to see what "Jim Ham's" successor was like. They saw six feet of dandling, slim manhood, a sober, gloomy exterior, with clothing hanging limp and ill fitting.

They gazed at him for a moment and then, bursting into a laugh, some one said, "Great heavens, do they raise anything but freaks in Washington?" To which Cushman replied drawlingly, "Well, we try to keep pace with the rest of this great country, sir."

When the river and harbor bill was being discussed and most of the members had hidden themselves in the cloakrooms Cushman arose to speak. No one paid much attention for awhile. Suddenly some listener awoke the house with a roar of laughter. Five minutes later the seats were filled with listeners to one of the wittiest speeches ever delivered there.

J. Adam Bede, who had a reputation for humor, was once followed in one of his wittiest speeches by Cushman, who said:

"After listening to Mr. Bede's speech I am forced to the conclusion that my folks subscribed to the same almanac that his did."

After Secretary Hitchcock resigned from the interior department Cushman made a speech in which he said, "When the news of Mr. Hitchcock's retirement was sent out there was not a dry throat west of the Mississippi."

Telling of his going to congress he said, "I crept noiselessly into the hall, oppressed by the vast gods of statesmanship I knew were to be found on every hand—conscious of my own unworthiness except as to the matter of depulchritude, where I knew I was supreme."

Now and then Cushman essayed to flay the methods of the house. On one occasion he said, "A man who introduces a bill here puts his manhood in his pocket and goes trotting down the aisle to the speaker's room—or the bill dies."

Serenio Payne, who, then as now, was chairman of the committee on ways and means, came in for a special drubbing at Cushman's hands in that speech, as did General Charles H. Grosvenor of Ohio and John Dalzell, the speaker's Republican colleagues on the committee on rules. It was in that speech that Mr. Cushman gave his famous explanation of why he was so thin.

"I have behind me an honest but infuriated constituency," he said, "half a million worthy, honest, patriotic people, who are demanding, and rightfully, that I secure certain needed legislation for them. That is the pressure on me from the rear. Then, in this house, whenever I try to secure consideration of the matters in which my people are interested I run up against the stone wall that surrounds the speaker and the committee on rules. That is the pressure in front. And I tell you frankly that between the two I have become thinner than a canceled postage stamp. That is what is the matter with me."

One of Cushman's first speeches made a hit in the house. In lamenting the panic of 1893 he said that his constituents were so impoverished by the hard times that they had to live on clams washed ashore until their stomachs rose and fell with the tide.

Here are a few of Cushman's epigrams: "A great many of our citizens seem to be possessed of the desire to live on the installment plan—too many live swiftly, too few properly."

"There are too many of us Americans who would rather ride in a mortgaged automobile, run with borrowed gasoline, than walk in the path of honorable obscurity."

The career of Cushman was typically American and as typically western. He was born in Iowa in 1867, got a village schooling, and, with all his earthly possessions in a small sized handkerchief, he tied the corners loosely across the top and made for the boundless west. He landed in Washington and became a water boy for a railroad. Next he was a section hand, then a laborer, later a cowboy in Wyoming, a cook in a lumber camp, a lumberman, a sawmill hand and later a farmer.

For five years, when times were hardest and fees few and smallest, he was a lawyer in T. ma.

WOLGAST DEFEATS NELSON

Milwaukee Fighter Whips Lightweight Champion.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14.—Ad Wolgast of Milwaukee, despite the fact that he weighed five pounds less than Battling Nelson, gave the "Durable Dane" a thorough whipping in a ten-round bout before the Pacific Athletic club.

After an even first round Wolgast waded in and had the advantage in six of the remaining nine rounds. The champion did not have a single round in his favor, an even break being the very best he could get.

Wolgast fought the champion at his own game and beat him decisively. Nelson's face was badly swollen and blood streamed from his nose and mouth at the close of the fight. Wolgast was practically unmarked.

It was a terrific fight from the start and it was not until the ninth and tenth rounds that Wolgast succeeded in stopping Nelson's steady rushes. Nelson was a badly worried man in several stages of the fight.

ATTEMPTS END IN FAILURE

Orville Wright Vainly Tries to Maneuver His Aeroplane.

Washington, July 14.—Orville Wright made two unsuccessful attempts to maneuver his aeroplane in the air at Fort Myer. The small area of the field and the unfavorable direction of the light wind blowing at the time were largely responsible for the failure of both flights attempted.

The machine rose from the ground on both occasions, but the aviator was obliged to make the turn at the end of the drill field before the "flying speed" had been attained. Greater speed is required for making turns than for straightaway flights and Mr. Wright was compelled to come to earth because of lack of speed when he attempted to make the turn. On the last attempt a cross-piece connecting the two skids was broken.

COSSACKS HOLD THE BARRACKS

Nationalists Unable to Dislodge Them at Teheran.

COMBAT IS FIERCELY WAGED

Battle Lasts Two Hours and the Cossacks Use Shrapnel on the Attacking Forces—Little Sympathy in England for the Shah, and That Country and Russia Will Keep Out of the Trouble Unless Foreigners Are Menaced.

London, July 14.—A special dispatch from Teheran says that the Nationalists attacked the Cossacks in the barracks and artillery square for two hours without succeeding in capturing the positions. The combat was fiercely waged, the Cossacks using shrapnel.

A body of the shah's troops, a dispatch says, is coming from Faha bad by forced marches to the assistance of the royalists.

There is little sympathy in England for the shah, who, according to reports from Persia, stands a good chance of losing his throne.

Great Britain's further action will be confined to strictly safeguarding British interests. It is believed that Russia will act similarly and unless foreigners in Teheran are considered to be in danger, will not allow her troops to interfere in any way in the present crisis.

RECENT EVENTS IN TURKEY

Are Now Being Repeated in the Shah's Domain.

Teheran, Persia, July 14.—Recent events in Turkey are being repeated in Persia. The constitutionalist forces, the advance of which on Teheran for a time was not considered serious, are now in possession of the greater part of the city, which they entered without encountering any organized resistance.

While Sardarasad and Sipahdar, the leaders in the movement, concentrated the attention of the royalists by demonstrations to the west, a strong body of Nationalists and Bakhtiari made their way unnoticed around to the north, from which point the capture of the capital was not difficult. The guards at the northern gates were disarmed and the invaders marched in, the foreign section leaders taking up their quarters in the old Mejliss building. This gives the Nationalists command of the city, with the exception of the artillery square and the drill ground adjoining. The royalists are badly situated to make further resistance and the Cossacks, under command of Russian officers, remain outside the city, entirely cut off from their comrades in the artillery square.

The strictest discipline is being maintained by the Nationalists, who are placing guards at the gates and other points as the royalists are disarmed. The Nationalists' leader, in a note to the Russian and British legations, guarantees security of life and property to foreigners, adding that nothing is demanded from the shah but a real constitution. Sipahdar already has summoned the members of the Mejliss to witness the opening of parliament.

The invaders lost only one man while making their entry into the city. The loss to the royalists is unknown, but cannot be heavy, as the Cossacks were the only defenders to offer resistance.

AUTOS ARRIVE IN CHICAGO

Cover Second Lap of Annual Endurance Contest.

Chicago, July 14.—Through the aid of pilots of the Chicago Motor club, the Glidden automobile tourists arrived in Chicago unimpeded by the artful speed traps on the boulevard approaches in the southern side of the city.

Chairman C. P. Root of the Chicago Motor club, together with volunteers from the club and the Chicago Automobile Trade association, formed an escort which journeyed to South Chicago to meet the incoming racers and to pilot them in safety to the Congress hotel, where the second lap of the great annual endurance contest ended.

The run was from Kalamazoo, Mich., a distance of 143 miles, and in it the enthusiastic contestants encountered all the discomforts which a torrid sun and sandy roads could give them. The roads were good until Niles, Mich., was reached, and after that they were heavy and dusty.

The only accidents of the day were minor ones. Two cars were penalized and two cars had not arrived when the penalizing committee adjourned.

Lineman Fatally Injured.

Hudson, Wis., July 14.—L. Glover of Mankato, a lineman in the employ of the Wisconsin Telephone company, while working in this city fell from the top of a twenty-five-foot pole, lighting on his head and shoulders and received injuries that will probably prove fatal.

FOR HIS DAUGHTER'S SAKE

Illinois Banker Remained Passive During Domestic Trouble.

Watseka, Ill., July 14.—That J. B. Saylor, the Crescent City banker who was slain Sunday by Dr. W. R. Miller, remained passive for the sake of his fifteen-year-old daughter Goldie, while talk of the alleged intimacy of his wife and Dr. Miller was rife—not only in his home town but in other parts of the country, is asserted by the decedent's closest friends.

On this theory alone are they able to account for the country banker's uncomplaining silence during the past two years during which it is said that Dr. Miller has, with growing frequency, been Mrs. Saylor's guest at her home, and her companion on long drives, rambles through the woods and on hunting expeditions.

Mr. Saylor idolized his daughter Goldie. Two years ago he sent her to the neighboring town of Onarga to attend a seminary in order it is now said that she might not witness the domestic tangle which was coming into general notice.

According to W. R. Nightingale, cashier of the bank of which Mr. Saylor was vice president, the father determined to suffer in silence rather than take any action which would involve his child in notoriety.

That Dr. Miller stood in real danger of being lynched Monday night is asserted by Mr. Nightingale and many others. More than 100 men thronged the streets of the usually quiet village of Crescent City, trying to organize themselves for an attack on the jail here. One man with a rope was forcibly taken to his home by the cooler heads whose counsel prevailed.

TWO DIE IN AN IOWA RIVER

Girl and Man Who Tried to Save Her Perish.

Iowa Falls, Ia., July 14.—A double drowning occurred here. While riding on a launch Dorothy Bruce was struck by a guy wire and thrown into the water.

Archie Drake from Dow City, Ia., night operator at Illinois Central depot, jumped to save her and was drowned. Both bodies were recovered about an hour after the accident.

Miss Leona Sherry and Marvin Reynolds were also thrown into the water, but saved themselves by grasping the guy wire.

Foundation For Trouble.

"Oh, my head! My head!" groaned Rivers.

"If anything ails your head," suggested Brooks, "why not treat it homeopathically?"

"How's that?"

"Have it shingled."

It occurred to Rivers later on that Brooks meant to intimate he had a wooden head, but by that time Brooks was out of reach.—Chicago Tribune.
